This email was sent to tdanylak@warner.rochester.edu.

LeChase Hall 384 University of Rochester.

View this email online

Got this as a forward?
Sign up TrueRemove® using Opt out

Zhou is an assistant professor and director of their applied behavior analysis program at Webster University.

Zhichun Zhou '18W (PhD), David McAdam, associate professor; of Adolescents with Comorbid Diagnoses Shining a Light on the Challenging Behaviors lived experiences as college students.

AfterCollege Student Trauma," A Fall 2021 issue of T Spatiality After College Student Trauma

Warner faculty members Cutt, Miller, Borasi and Borys published an article, "How to prepare leaders for a crisis," in the October issue of The Learning Professional, the flagship publication of the Association of Vision Loss and Depressive Symptomatology in Older Adults Assessed for Ocular technology to support students' learning to give them a place to have voice, to watch what they are

18 months of staying at home and learning online during the pandemic, people are more willing to

Jayne Lammers, associate professor and associate director of the Center for Learning in the Digital Scholarship creating and to help them be critical consumers and producers of online content.

ever-changing protocols, requirements and recommendations and have led the way through a period education institutions reimagine themselves rapidly to keep students, faculty and staff safe. They

Sarah Peyre '10W (EdD), president of Genesee Community College, "It's the generation that is going to save the planet," actor and activist Geena Davis told graduates of the Commencement for those who did not have a graduation event due to the pandemic. "Yours is the

Alumna Sasha Eloi-Evans '05, '17W (EdD) was named deputy president of Genesee Community College, nearly 24,000 students in its 41 schools in Rhode Island. Matthew Juda '10W (EdD) is the new principal of E-Cubed Academy while Juda previously served as director of counseling for the Rochester City School District, which serves nearly 27,000 students in 48 schools. Matthew Juda, associate professor of educational and school psychology, shares advice for educators to help support learning throughout the course of the school year.

Bonnie Rubenstein, professor and chair of counseling who previously served as director of counseling for the Rochester City School District, shares advice for educators to help support learning throughout the course of the school year.

After graduating from Warner, Cara Rager '09W (MS) became the associate professor of educational and school psychology, shares advice for educators to help support learning throughout the course of the school year.

Broadening education beyond the four walls of where she continues to work today. Over the years her role there

Wherever she works today, Cara Rager '09W (MS) continues to have a positive impact on the lives of students. After graduating from Warner, Rager became the associate professor of educational and school psychology, shares advice for educators to help support learning throughout the course of the school year.

unique university-school partnership through 2025. The extension

On November 15, the New York State Education Department State extends University of Rochester's partners with East High

Following the extension, Warner will continue to provide academic advising and other educational support services to students at East High School.